Way to go with iGo Primo

RENOWNED 4WD and outback mapping company Hema has just released an updated and upgraded version of its in-vehicle navigation system. They've called it the HN5i.

The Hema Navigator HN5i uses the same fast and reliable hardware as its predecessor, but there's been a complete software update. It now uses iGo Primo, a premium street navigation product.

"iGo kept showing us the best of everything they had and we took the lot," said Hema Managing Director Rob Boegheim. "We simply wanted the best navigation system for our customers."

It is not only much more sophisticated and user-friendly, but also allows for greater personal customisation. Plus it comes with the latest CAMPS Australia Wide Edition 6 sites preloaded.

Hema is also offering free street updates to buyers for a whole two years: available in regular periodic downloads. This is great value considering updates would normally cost $100 each!

Of course all the latest Hema 4WD, Touring and Australia TOPO 250K maps are preloaded on a whopping 8GB Micro SD card, ready for use on the HN5i in both OziExplorer and Memory-Map.

Also included in the feature-packed NH5i is a complete Street Nav software update – now with iGo Primo; a premium product offering greater ease of operation, multi-point routing and full customisation.

iGo Primo represents the pinnacle of the iGo programs, giving the user a fully-customisable street nav system that is very simple and easy-to-use, with clear colours and large buttons.

One of the key features is the incorporation of a 'Quick' menu. You can enter any eight icons you wish on the Quick menu to make the unit fully functional for your style of navigation.

Of particular interest to motorhomers are the 3,700 preloaded sites from the very latest CAMPS Australia Wide Edition 6. You can use the HN5i in conjunction with the printed CAMPS 6 to work out where you'll stay and then navigate directly to your chosen site.

Accommodation and caravan park choices can also be accessed in the same way. It's a very well thought-out program.

You can enter a single or multi-point route and the unit will display the distance to go and the time it will take to get there. It will even tell you how much fuel you'll need. Then with two clicks you can find your nearest service station or mechanic. You can even calculate your carbon dioxide output!

The NH5i is priced at RRP $899 and comes with a 12 month warranty, backed by Hema's dedicated customer support team.
